#Friday #Blueskyday

Today's word of the day is diverse.

Look it up in a dictionary or online, or ask someone in your house what it means. Find the word class, definition, synonyms, antonyms and use it in a sentence. Why not post your sentence on the class blog? See if you spot this word on the TV or hear it on the radio today.

English Next week, we are going to be doing some work based on the class book, 'The Girl of Ink and Stars.' It would be really helpful if you could read from the beginning again and up to page 53 (the end of chapter 6) As you read, stop now and again to 'sum up in seven' or at least to make yourself notes of what is happening every chapter. I'd also like you to start a character list in your exercise book where you make a note of every character you come across, and who they are. You could jot notes about their personality, appearance and relationships with each other, and add to these as you read.

If you would prefer it, the audio version of the story is available for free via the Norfolk library service website if you have a library card, or it is available to purchase on Audible (via Amazon).

This week's spelling focus is words with silent letters. Go back to the spelling cards from Monday and have a go at spelling them again – perhaps you could play speedspell again. Alternatively, you could cut the cards up now so that each word is separated into its individual letters. Mix ALL these letters up and then put each word back together like a jigsaw.

Maths Today we're continuing work on reflecting and translating shapes. Have a look at the maths file for today's learning and task. The class game of battleships continues on the blog – three ships have been sunk, five to go!

PE Get outside and enjoy the sunshine if you can. Why not set up an obstacle course in your house or garden? You could build in activities like star jumps, rolls or balances to keep you fit and co-ordinated. There's also the online PE lesson at 9am with Joe Wicks, or at 1.30 you can join DDDanceMix for dance on Facebook live (@diversedancemix) or watch any time on their website <https://diversedancemix.com/>.

Computing You've probably been doing lots of work on the computer this week – if you can handle any more, then have a go at continuing your WW2 blog.

Don't forget to look at the 'Thought for the Day' on the website, and also check in with the Class blog.
