

As I was cycling along a country lane I came across a house which had two mirrors on its driveway. I noticed that the surface of these mirrors was _____ which meant that I could see myself in them. I looked the _____ in each mirror. The house was on a sharp bend, so the road wasn't _____, and that meant that it was difficult to see around the corner. However, the mirrors made it possible for the owner to see if it was safe before they pulled out. The mirrors were made from glass, which is _____, with an _____ metal backing. The posts that they were fixed to didn't reflect the light, they were _____.
