

English Weekly Overview for w/c 08.06.2020

We are going to be learning:

- To use and spell the correct homophone
- To revise the key features of an explanatory text
- To plan and write an explanatory text.

Monday:

Spellings – for this week there is a grid with a choice of multisensory activities – choose one way that suits you to practice your spellings.

Handwriting / Grammar– this revises homophones which many of you still find tricky! Complete the homophones sheet included in the folder today – you don't have to print this as the letters can be copied onto lined paper / into your book.

Tuesday – We are going to be looking at Wallace and Gromit's "Cracking Contraptions" and have a go at designing our own Cracking Contraption!

Wednesday – We are going to be planning an explanatory text to explain how our cracking contraption works!

Thursday – Remembering all of the features of explanatory texts that we have learned about, we are going to write an explanatory text to explain how our cracking contraption works!

Friday – This is our philosophy day so there won't be any English set today.
